Hampton, Fratt-Take Over Executive Duties of Council

Ray Hampton is the new president of OU's Student Council. He was elected at the Council's meeting Monday afternoon.

Serving as vice-president is Merlyn Fratt. Joan Willey is the new secretary, while Derelle Blumer will take over the treasurer's duties.

In addition to the election of officers, the Council discussed Homecoming and appointed chair-men for the celebration. Fratt is general chairman.

In charge of publicity is Miss Willey, while Jerry Welling will handle the half-time ceremony at the Homecoming football game Nov. 15. Syntha Judd is in charge of the dance, Miss Blumer will plan the pep rally and Phyllis Wilke is in charge of decorations. Hampton is in charge of costumes.

Discuss Revue

As part of the plan, Fratt and Gary Luse will attend the Creighton board meeting Monday. They will present the idea to that group and possibly plan another meeting to finish the plans.

The Council also discussed the Tom Tom Revue Monday. Dr. Edwin Clark asked the Council to clarify its ideas on the Revue, especially as to what type of show should be presented.

Dr. Clark pointed out that until last year, the show had been a variety revue. Last year, he added, it was an original operetta by two OU students. The Sta

Students Will Honor Dads

Do Your Part, Too

Tomorrow is Dad's Day and AF-ROTC Day.

It's also Omaha U's third home football game of the seasonand another good chance to prove that you are really interested

The team has had some tough games, losing three on the road: one by one point, another by one touchdown and the other by two TD's. This team has been playing top-notch ball. The crowds should also be top-notch!

There seems to be only one course left open to true Omaha U. fans—if we are going to prove that we have the interest and spirit to back our school. Get out there tomorrow and make yourself heard!

This is the only time during the season that the dads of the team members will be honored. Those dads will be at the game -and there is no reason why you can't bring your dad out to the game and honor him.

The ROTC cadets will be there—as will the dads. How many of you will be there?

Three Students Gain Speech Contest Finals

Glenn Margritz, Annabelle Smith and Neil Thomsen were chosen as finalists last Friday to compete in the Henry Monsky Memorial Speech Contest, The three students competed with six other entrants for $100 in prizes, in the finals.

The finals of the contest were held Tuesday night in the Central YMCA auditorium. The OU finalists were chosen by Phil Allen, instructor of speech, and J. D. Tyson, head of the department of

Danforth Foundation Offers, Fellowships

Future college teachers now have an opportunity to apply for the Graduate Fellowships offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo. The fellowships are available to recent graduates and seniors who are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1953, for their first year of graduate study.

OU professor, H. L. Rice, will work with the Danforth Foundation to select the candidates. Students with or without financial need may apply. The fellowship will be awarded on a basis of encouragement, although financial aid will be given according to the student's need.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the Annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan next September.

Omaha University has been asked to limit its nominations to three students. Any eligible student who wishes further information should contact Professor H. L. Rice in Office 315 B.

For the first time in history, the Omaha University will offer a combination Dad's Day and ROTC day at a football

At tomorrow's game against Knox College, three units of the ROTC, the University band and the Orchesis will preform for the Dads and the fans.

The Arnold Air Society, the Angels' Flight, and the Cadet Wing will represent the campus military section. Heads of these organiza-tions are Roger Cross, cadet wing; Jack Katz, Arnold Air Society; and Phyllis Wilke, Arnold Air Society. All have helped in the various arrangements.

Maj. Robert Whaley explained the objects of the ROTC day thusly, "Emphasis will be on support of the team and pep for the fans rather than rather than on our organizations." Then the Major smiled and said, "You can expect a surprise or two, also."

All students are invited to bring parents to a coffee hour in the shack immediately following the game—all dads will be honored.

Also present at half-time will be a special drill squad composed of basic students.

Another feature of the half-time is the combined band and Orchesia number. Eight members of Orchesis will do a dance routine to three numbers with the band.
First will be "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater," followed by "Little Brown Jug" and "Dry Bones."

The eight girls will be directed by Miss Mary Lou Niebling, a new

Meanwhile the band will offer three formations, a pumpkin, and corn stalk, and a jug.

Faculty Fund Drive Goes Over Goal

The Community Chest drive among faculty and staff employees has gone over the top in the 1953 campaign. The canvass among employees has closed with a total collection of $1,716.50. The total is 112 percent of the $1,535 quota. This total is compared with the $1,477 collected last year. Don O. Nelson, business administration instructor, was chairman of the drive.

The nine-man faculty team collecting Community Chest pledges from business establishments reported a total of $1,498 from donors. This total is 97 percent of the $1,564 quota. The final citywide victory dinner will be held next week.

Deans Take Over New Group Jobs

Two Omaha University deans have been appointed officers at meetings held in recent weeks.

Dr. William H. Thompson, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, has been named chairman of the American Association on Mental Deficiency. The election was at the regional conference of mem-bers of North Dakota, South Da-kota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa. The meeting was held last week in Council Bluffs. Dr. Thompson succeeds Dr. Charles

Omaha U. Coed Shows Way To Voters in Fall Elections

One Omaha University student will get political experience soon after her twenty-first birthday.

Barbara Magnuson, a senior majoring in journalism, will be 21 on the day of the national election, Nov. 4. Miss Magnuson found out early this week that a voter does not have to be 21 on the day he or she registers, merely 21 by the day of the election.

One other OU student, Burt McMillan, is not quite so lucky. McMillan will turn 21 just one week after the national election, so will miss any actual participation in the election. "I'll have to wait four long years," he sighed. Undoubtedly this plight will face other Omaha U. students. But there is a large number of students who will vote this year.

We don't want this to sound like an editorial, but if the showing of the students in the last student election is any basis, the University's showing at the na-tional polls will be rather poor.

Voting registration ends tomorrow noon. Voting workers have urged that all persons who are eligible should register without fall. They emphasize that if a persons who are the person of son does not register, he will not be able to vote

Survey Reveals Females Outnumbered By Males

The Gateway survey has un-covered the best dating hours in the school day.

For the feminine set the best time and place to be on the short end of the boy-girl ratio is around 2:30 in the student lounge where the boys outnumber the girls exactiv 6 to 1.

At the same hour in the shack, it again seems that the girls are scarce. This time the male contingent held a 2 to 1 margin.

If would-be skirt hounds would want an abundance of women, they should mosey up to the library in the late afternoon where the figures read five girls to every four boys. The odds here are somewhat meager, but it's the best selection in the school from boy's angle.

Bombs Away

First you turn at the initial point, get on the bombing axis...that's it ... we're on target now ... bombs away!

These are familiar words coming from the ROTC administration class this week. The cadets are working on a mission to bomb the docks of San Francisco.

There are also a few other familiar words uttered as the cadets are required to work out such detail as the amount of gas that'is needed, bomb load, escorts, and enemy interference.

Also the route, altitude of the flight, rendezvous points, and the weather that the bombers will encounter on the mission.

The class instructed by Major Chester Steffey, takes turns in briefing the rest of the class as though they were the crew members of B-29's ready to take off on the mission.

Musical Entertainment Hits Omaha Territory

Music lovers may rejoice with the entertainment that is available to the fans in Omaha for the next several weeks.

Tonight at Tech High, Ella Fitzgerald will be featured with Norman Granz's Jazz at the Philharmonic.

Also tonight is the Ak-Sar-Ben
Ball at the coliseum, plus Sammy Kay and his band playing at Peony Park.

November 5, a trio of stars will be at the University of Nebraska Student Union building. They are Nat King Cole, Sarah Vaughn and Stan Kenton and his orchestra.

Over Target .. Keep It Moving . . .

Our long-sought action has finally come! We would like to think that it was our last editorial which stimulated the starting of petitions in favor of lights for the OU stadium.

At any rate, the petitions are being circulated, and the response seems to be strong. But some 1,000 signatures will have to be on the list before very much weight can be attached to it.

Don't get me wrong! Every name added to the list is important! But just don't get the idea that a few names are going to get the lights.

A second step in the process of finding proof for the plan offered by the Gateway has also been started. Letters have been mailed to the business managers of 15 universities and colleges which have had experience with night football.

The letters requested information on attendance before and after the switch to games under the lights. It also asks for information concerning net profits brought in by the installation

. If these schools respond, the University will have concrete proof that night football is the answer to the lagging OU crowds. If, for some reason, night football is not paying off, then you must admit that Omaha U. does not want it either. But this last idea is highly improbable.

It is our firm conviction that night football is the answer. And we think that when these statistics are available and the petitions from students are completed, there can be no alternative but to install lights.

Delays, Difficulties Plague KWOU's Wislow As Programming, Announcers Jumble Schedule

Picture it. The maddened program director racing around the studio, tearing out his curly hair, pleading with electricians and the cigar smoking staff and deadline. One second to "On the Air."

Don't just picture it. Go up and see it. This has been the plight of Harold Winslow, program di-rector for KWOU, campus radio station for the past months. Winslow is a typical radio manager. He and his staff have worked out a program of top musical enter-tainment for the Omaha U students and then it happened.

Technical difficulties: the control room wasn't installed in time. The broadcasting system wasn't hooked up to the Student Center juke box so that music listeners could enjoy the KWOU offerings rather than pick the Rosemary Clooney, Mario Lanza, Jo Staf-ford, Perry Como and Frankie Laine records they like, Instead the students were to get these star-liners through the channels of KWOU.

On the programming rehearsal, Winslow was bothered by a few minor mishaps. The announcer for the station break didn't show up, the announcer for one hour pro-gram was absent. But in spite of it all it has happened.

KWOU will go on the air Monday morning at 11 a. m.

Second Half Assault Neis AF-ROTC 18-0 Victory Over Theta Chi

By Charlie Rice

In the Intramural League this week Theta Chi suffered their third straight setback of the year as ROTC rolled to an 18- vice. tory Monday afternoon.

The first half saw both teams put on a strong defense, holding the opposition scoreless.

But in the second half the ROTC power came to light as the airmen scored three fast touchdowns. The first marker came on a sixty yard aerial play from Bob Chedester to Archie Templeton.

Chedester Passes Again

The Air Force eleven added the second marker a few minutes later as Chedester passed again, this time to Dick Westin on a 40 yard scoring play.

A shoe string eatch in the end zone by Dale Cockerill gave ROTC its final tally. Chedester again was on the pitching end of the play which came with only a few min-utes remaining in the game.

Theta Chi threatened in the second half when a sixty yard run by Ronnie Abboud put the ball inside the ROTC twenty yard line. But, the Air Force showed a strong defense and halfs and halfs and halfs.

defense and halted the threat.

In Tuesdays game Blackhawks handed Sigma Phi Epsilon their first loss of the season by penetration.

Game Protested

Since the game ended in a 0-0 tie, it was forced into a penetra-tion overtime period. In the extra stanza Blackhawks scored 23 yards to the Sig Eps' twenty, therefore giving the unaffiliated group a three yard edge for the victory.

However, Sig Ep protested the game because of a rule infraction making the actual winner of the contest dependent upon the decision of the intramural council at their meeting this afternoon at 3.

This afternoon Lambda Chi Alpha will ppose ISA in this week's final contest. Next week's sched-ule will open Monday afternoon; when Theta Chi meets the Blackhawks.

Pi Kapa First

Phi Epsilon Pi dropped out of further competition this year, and automatically forfeited all of their remaining games. Therefore, Wednesday's Phi Ep-Pi Kappa Alpha contest gave Pi Kap their third win of the year, by forfeit.

This gives the Pi Kaps sole possession of first place in the league with three wins and no losses.

Hints for Halloween Parties

By Lorrie Lemen

Halloween can be lots of fun, so why not give a party yourself? It's easy entertaining too, with inexpensive decorations, easy-to-prepare food, games, and everyone dressed in comfortable old clothes.

Perhaps we can give you a few ideas. Invitations are always cuter if they are original. They may be cut from construction paper and be in the forms of traditional halloween figures, such as cats. witches, ghosts, or pumpkins. When wording your invitations use an old superstition.

If your home is large enough you could plan a carnival type party. Booths can be constructed inexpensively from heavy sheets of cardboard nailed to a wooden frame. The booths may contain a variety of entertainment from fortune telling to dunking for apples. Refreshments, too, may be served from these booths.

Use Halloween animals in black and orange colors for your party. Glitter, metallic, or little brilliants left over in the manufacture of sequins are sold at art or paint stores and can be used to make the decorations more colorful and bright.

The climax your evening of fun serve a luncheon of hot cocoa, half-moon sandwiches, red apples. and pumpkin tarts.
